Origen do nome Mendeley

- Primeiro chamou-se Literacula, porque tomava os metadados diretamente dos arquivos .PDF

G. Mendel

- O nome Mendeley é em homenagem ao George Mendel e a Dimitri Ivanovich Mendeléyev.
 - Mendeléiev, químico Russo criador da tabela periódica dos elementos (conhecido porque foi quem iniciou a sistematização e organização das formas elementares da matéria).
 - Gregor Mendel, autor das leis de Mendel que deram origem a herança genética. Os primeiros trabalhos em genética foram feitos por Mendel com ervilhas e apoiava financeiramente algumas universidades .

Sobre Mendeley

Mais de 3 milhões de estudantes e profissionais usam Mendeley para organizar, escrever, colaborar e promover a sua pesquisa.

The screenshot shows the Mendeley homepage. At the top is the Mendeley logo (a red stylized 'M') and the word 'MENDELEY'. Below the logo is a navigation bar with five tabs: Dashboard, My Library, Papers, Groups, and People. Under the 'Papers' tab, it says 'In this catalog: 34,235,271 papers'. Below this are several logos of partner institutions: Bauhaus-Universität Weimar (blue box), Skype (blue cloud icon), Stanford University (red seal), MIT (red and grey logo), last.fm (blue button with white 'w'), University of Southampton (blue box), and University of Cambridge (red crest).

120 milhões de referências

English abstract

The desire to create automata is a familiar theme in human history, and during the age of the Enlightenment mechanical automata became not only an "emblem of the cosmos", but a symbol of man's confidence that he would unlock nature's greatest mysteries and fully harness her power. And yet only a century later, automata had begun to represent human repression and servitude, a theme later picked up by writers of science fiction. Man's confidence undeterred, the endgame of the modern scientific and technological mindset, or MSTM, seems to be increasingly coming into view with the rise of "information technology" in general and "Big data" in particular. Along with those who wield them, these can be seen as functioning together as a "mechanical muse" of sorts – surprisingly alluring – and, like a physical automaton can serve as a symbol – a microcosm – of what the MSTM sees (at the very least in practice) as the cosmic machine, our "final frontier". And yet, individuals who unreflectively participate in these things – giving themselves over to them and seeking the powers afforded by the technology apart from technology's rightful purposes – in fact yield to the same pragmatism and reductionism those wielding them are captive to. Thus, they ultimately nullify themselves philosophically, politically, and economically – their value increasingly being only the data concerning their persons, and its perceived usefulness. Likewise libraries, the time-honored place of, and symbol for, the intellectual flowering of the individual, will, insofar as they spurn the classical liberal arts with the idea that these are intrinsically good, and in the case of humans, useful as well in favor of the alluring charms of MSTM.

Abstract:

This article proposes a model of e-books for schools based on a graph in which nodes represent individual subjects of a teaching program to a the relatively low granularity, which facilitates their aggregation and re-usability, and edges represent prerequisites between subjects (and, indeed, between nodes). On this graph we will develop a series of simple algorithms that allow both teachers and students to assemble an interactive and personalized ebook that, respecting the prerequisites, it will be significant from the point of methodological and stylistic sense. Therefore, teachers and students do not have available a set of unrelated units neither a limited set a few pre-packaged learning paths, as it is typical of some solutions on the Web, but rather will have a network of topics that can be serialized in a combinatorial vast number of alternatives, and therefore can create as ma...

An in-depth longitudinal analysis of mixing patterns in a small scientific collaboration network

Alberto Pepe, Marko A. Rodriguez
(Submitted on 22 Nov 2009)

Many investigations of scientific collaboration are based on statistical analyses of large networks constructed from bibliographic repositories. These investigations often rely on a wealth of bibliographic data, but very little or no other information about the individuals in the network, and thus, fail to illustrate the broader social and academic landscape in which collaboration takes place. In this article, we perform an in-depth longitudinal analysis of a fairly small network of scientific collaboration ($N = 291$) constructed from the bibliographic record of a research center involved in the development and application of sensor network technologies. We perform a preliminary analysis of selected structural properties of the network, computing its range, configuration and topology. We then support our preliminary statistical analysis with an in-depth temporal investigation of the assortativity mixing of these node characteristics: academic department, affiliation, position, and country of origin, unveiling the researchers' propensity to collaborate preferentially with others with similar characteristics. Our qualitative analysis of mixing patterns offers clues as to the nature of the scientific community being modeled in relation to its organizational, disciplinary, institutional, and international arrangements of collaboration.

Below the toolbar, the title of the article is visible: "STEM CELLS Concise Review". The main text of the article is titled "Bone Marrow Stromal Stem Cells: Nature, Biology, and Potential Applications". Below the title, the authors listed are PAOLO BIANCO, MARA RIMINUCCI, STAN GRONTHOS, and PAMELA GEHRON ROBEY. The text continues with author affiliations and a section on key words. At the bottom, there is an abstract section.

ABSTRACT

Bone marrow stromal cells are progenitors of skeletal tissue components such as bone, cartilage, the hematopoiesis-supporting stroma, and adipocytes. In addition, they may be experimentally induced to undergo unorthodox differentiation, possibly forming neural and myogenic cells. As such, they represent an important paradigm of post-natal nonhematopoietic stem cells, and an easy source for potential therapeutic use. Along with an overview of the basics of their biology, we discuss here their potential nature as components of the vascular wall, and the prospects for their use in local and systemic transplantation and gene therapy. Stem Cells 2001;19:180-192

Anota e Remarcar

Adult bone-marrow-derived mesenchymal stem cells are immunosuppressive and prolong the rejection of mismatched skin grafts in animals. We transplanted haploidentical mesenchymal stem cells in a patient with severe treatment-resistant grade IV acute graft-versus-host disease of the gut and liver. Clinical response was striking. The patient is now well after 1 year. We postulate that mesenchymal stem cells have a potent immunosuppressive effect in vivo.

Lancet 2004; 363: 1439–41
See Commentary page 1411

Severe acute graft-versus-host disease (GVHD) after allogeneic stem-cell transplantation is associated with high mortality. Bone marrow contains pluripotent mesenchymal stem cells that form bone, cartilage, adipose tissue, and muscle. These stem cells are not immunogenic and escape recognition by alloreactive T cells and natural killer cells. Mesenchymal stem cells given intravenously have been well tolerated.¹ Furthermore, they are immunosuppressive and inhibit the proliferation of alloreactive T cells. Journal: Education Libraries

Year: 2011

Volume: 34

Issue:

Pages: 7-14

Abstract:

This paper is a review of reports on information literacy and the workforce. There is a substantial body of literature on information literacy in K-16 educational settings, but there is much less literature on implications for the workplace and job-related lifelong learning. The topical categories of the reports are: the importance of information literacy for the workforce; how information literacy differs in work and educational settings; and barriers to information literacy in the workplace. The paper concludes with recommendations for practice and ...

The screenshot shows the Mendeley Desktop application interface. On the left, there's a sidebar with 'Add Documents' and 'My Library' sections containing 'All Documents', 'Recently Added', 'Favorites', 'My Publications', 'Unsorted', and 'Zotero Library'. Below these are 'Shared Collections' and 'Trash' sections. A search bar at the bottom says 'Filter by Author's Keywords'.

The main window has a toolbar with icons for 'New', 'Create', 'Remove', and 'Sync'. The 'View' menu is open, showing options like 'Library as Table', 'Library as Citations', 'Citation Style' (which is currently selected), and 'Toolbar Layout'. A dropdown menu for 'Citation Style' lists various styles: American Medical Association, American Political Science Association, American Psychological Association, American Sociological Association, Chicago Manual of Style (Author-Date format), Chicago Manual of Style (Full Note with Bibliography), Chicago Manual of Style (Note with Bibliography), Harvard Reference format 1 (Author-Date), IEEE, ISO-690 (Author-Date format) - UNFINISHED, and 'More Styles...'. The 'ISO-690 (Author-Date format) - UNFINISHED' option is highlighted with a blue box.

To the right, a list of publications is displayed in a table format. The columns are 'Year', 'Published In', and 'Title'. The titles include 'Sistemas de información electrónica y ...', 'Manual de gestión electr...', 'Anales de Ciencia y Documentación', 'Anales de la provincia...', 'Anales de Documentación', 'E-LIS: E-Prints in Li...', 'ACIMED', and 'Col·legi Oficial de ...'.

The screenshot shows the Mendeley Groups interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with options like 'Add Documents', 'Delete Documents', 'Remove Collection', 'Group', 'Group Library', and 'Edit Settings'. Below this is a sidebar with a tree view of groups, including 'Mendeley Office', 'Reinventing the scientific paper', 'social media', 'Stem Cell Assays', 'testing-sharing', 'alt-metrics', 'Biosensor', and several groups under 'Creatively named research papers' such as 'Data sharing and withholding', 'Embryonic Stem Cells', 'Mendeley.com design feedback', 'MSC Biology', 'MSCs and Bone', 'My Publications', 'Myeloma', 'Open Access Week', 'Reinventing the Scientific Paper', 'AntibodyEngineering', 'CSCs Biology', 'Data citation', 'Data reuse', and 'DNA methylation'. A 'Filter by My Tags' section lists tags like 'All', 'Buffy', 'evidence-based medicine', 'fun', 'lol', 'necrophilia', 'parachute', 'randomized controlled trial', 'stupidity', and 'Zombies'. The main content area shows a group page for 'creatively-named-research-papers', owned by 'stephen crome'. It features a 'What's on your mind?' text input field, a post from 'Juliet Rowley' adding a document ('Effect of background noise on food perception'), and another from 'Ricardo Vidal' adding documents ('Dreamboys, Meatmen and Werewolves: Visualizing Erotic Identities in All-Male Comic Strips', 'Dinner at Baby's: Werewolves, dinosaur jaws, hen's teeth, and horse toes', 'Cloning and functional analysis of 5'-upstream region of the Pokemon gene'). There's also a post from 'William Gunn' about parachutes. On the right, there's an 'About this group' section, a list of '31 members' with small profile pictures, and a link to the group's URL (<http://www.mendeley.com/groups/536621/creatively-named-research-papers/>). ⦿ How-to series: How to export your annotations (alone or with your PDF) [part 8 of 12]

19 April 2012 by Ricardo - No Comments »

0 tweet f t e

In the eighth entry to our How-to series, we look at the built-in PDF viewer within Mendeley Desktop. We (and many others) think that Mendeley is a great tool to organize your research documents. It's also a great application to allow you to read, annotate and highlight your PDFs tool! The built-in PDF viewer allows multiple open documents, highlighting, post-it-like note taking and more.

If you double-click an entry for which you have the PDF document available, you will then be able to view the document in the built-in PDF reader. You can have multiple PDFs open simultaneously, each in their own tab. Like most PDF viewers, you have the general tools that allow you to pan, zoom, read in full screen, etc. You can also annotate

Usabilidad de los catálogos de las bibliotecas universitarias: propuesta metodológica de evaluación

Dr. Crispulo Travieso Rodríguez,¹ Lic. Julio Alonso Arévalo² y Dip. José María Vivancos Secilla³

RESUMEN

La integración de diferentes recursos de información ha convertido el catálogo de las bibliotecas universitarias en un elemento esencial de acceso al sistema de información académica. Este hecho ha potenciado la aplicación de los principios y métodos de usabilidad, que conforman una herramienta de inequívocal valor para crear entornos de interacción hombre-máquina más sencillos, fiables y seguros. Se exponen algunos de los principios fundamentales de la usabilidad, así como sus métodos y procesos de aplicación en entornos generales. Por último, se establece una propuesta con las características propias de la aplicación de la usabilidad a sedes Web de bibliotecas universitarias.

Palabras clave: Usabilidad, accesibilidad, páginas Web, bibliotecas universitarias, catálogos automatizados, recursos electrónicos.

ABSTRACT

Integrated access to different information resources has turned academic libraries catalogues in a fundamental element for specialized information retrieval. This circumstance has reinforced the application of principles and usability, which constitute a very valuable tool in order to create simpler, more reliable and safer human-computer interactions environments. This article is centred on the essential principles of usability and on its processes to be applied in general fields. Finally, a methodological proposal for measuring usability characteristics in academic libraries websites is suggested.

Key words: Usability, accessibility, Web pages, academic libraries, online catalogues, electronic resources.

Desde hace décadas, el catálogo en línea de la biblioteca es instrumento de acceso básico a los fondos de cada centro o red de centros. Se ha constituido como la herramienta que permite conocer al usuario si su necesidad de información padece o no ser satisfecha con los documentos que la biblioteca posee. En el contexto actual de la búsqueda y recuperación de información es necesario considerar un conjunto de factores que han motivado un importante cambio, no sólo en la función de los Catálogos de Acceso Público en Línea (OPACs, por sus siglas en inglés) sino muy especialmente en las expectativas informativas.

Las posibilidades tecnológicas de publicación de documentos, las nuevas herramientas —cada vez más eficaces y populares— para la búsqueda de información, los modelos de intercambio de información académica extendidos en el ámbito universitario, son sólo algunos de los factores que pueden indicarse. Según apuntan algunos informes, se precisa la configuración de un nuevo planteamiento que recoja la misión y posibilidades del catálogo en línea.¹
